

SEARCHING FOR PIRATES

THE ROUGH CILICIA ARCHAEOLOGICAL SURVEY PROJECT

THE ARCHAEOLOGICAL INSTITUTE OF AMERICA · GEORGE M.A. HANFMANN MEMORIAL LECTURE

HANSON HALL OF SCIENCE 102
TUESDAY OCTOBER 16 · 7:30 PM

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Between 139 and 67 BC, pirates harried and plundered the eastern Mediterranean coast, waging economic war with Hellenistic realms and the Roman Republic.

Dr. Nicholas Rauh, professor of Classics at Purdue University, presents findings from 13 seasons of field work and emerging evidence of pirate enclaves in the ancient world.

The Harry S.B. Johnson

H·S·B·J

Endowment for Classics

The Terence Fund for Classics

Additional support for the George MA Hanfmann Memorial Lecture is provided by the Archaeological Institute of America Western Illinois Society, the Augustana College Department of Classics, the Harry SB Johnson Endowment, and the Terence Fund for Classics